

FILE SEVEN MORE

Additional Saloonkeepers Made Defendants for Alleged Sunday Opening.

SOME INCLINED TO CONTEST

None Has Yet Pledged to Charge—Many Coming Into Court and Furnishing Bail.

Information was today filed in the county court against seven more saloonkeepers as a result of the action of Mayor-Chief of Police McCaskin making his complaint to the state's attorney of Sunday opening. The additional men who are made defendants are McClellan Snyder, John J. Murrin, Louis Orrell, August Geiger, Oscar E. Apple, William Curran, and Frederick DeWaele.

Some May Fight.

Some of those against whom information was filed yesterday are inclined to fight their cases, steadfastly maintaining that their places were not open Sunday. The saloonkeepers involved, are coming into county court today and giving bail for their appearance in the sum of $200. None has yet pleaded to the charge.

Cannot Enforce His Own Edicts. The course of procedure now adopted by the mayor-chief-of-police amounts to an admission of two things, one that he has no official authority to order the Sunday closing of saloons, inasmuch as he is possessed of no more power than belongs to any other citizens who may assume the role of informant, to enforce his mandates, and the other is that he transgressed his prerogatives when on the occasion of his famous Sunday morning parade he revoked licenses which he subsequently returned.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight and Friday, with a cold wave tonight. The lowest temperature Friday morning will be close to zero.

While a decided rise in temperature in eastern Iowa and the southwestern portion of the lake region has been caused by the advance of the northern storm from Manitoba to the lower lakes an area of very high pressure, with a severe cold wave, is noted over the Red river valley. The thermometer has fallen to 30 degrees below at Winnipeg. Light snows from Minnesota and northern Iowa to New York and Pennsylvania have also accompanied the northern storm, and rain, due to a barometric depression over southern California, is falling in western Texas. Fair weather has prevailed in the remaining sections. The southeastward movement of the northwestern high pressure will be attended by continued fair conditions in this vicinity tonight and Friday, with a cold wave tonight.
